Store Closes 5:30 p. m.

Tonight at '6' Our Fiscal Year Ends, Tomorrow at '8' Begins a New Year

The New Store That Is One of the Public Utilities of the City

Much the same sense as the B. & O. railroad with its branches, and the traction company are for the service of the people, and to serve the public's wants in the most convenient form at equitable rates for service performed.

We have been more than gratified by the endorsements of the improved store, proved by the large increase of sales every day for the past two months; and while we don't want any more business than we can do well, yet it is perfectly clear to us that the new accommodations provided for almost every class of goods will permit us to serve.

3 Times as Many People

More speedily than we did two months ago and satisfactorily.

It is one of the principles of our business to recognize the position of responsibility in which we are placed, by being the owners of an institution that lives and succeeds in proportion to its usefulness to its public.

We are not here merely to sell you some merchandise today and this year, which we shall make a certain percentage of profit. Our success depends on something far more important to both of us than that. We know that we must be good servants. We must win your approbation in little things as well as in big things and we are quite as anxious to be useful to our patrons when doing some small service, or supplying some article of small cost on which there is practically no profit and doing the service promptly, courteously and helpful, as demonstration of our usefulness to our public.

We cordially thank the ever increasing number of friends who have contributed so much to the success we have so far achieved, and we take the opportunity to express our determination to make our store much more worthy of your patronage in the future than it has been in the past.

It is the time when we are willing and glad to lose money to clean up our stocks for the new season.

The bargains offered show the most decisive reductions, on goods that are wanted in every home, and which is often in quantities too small to supply half of the people who are eager to secure it.

It is a sale of 1,000 remnants, to be held in the bargain center on basement floor. The savings are one-fourth to one-half. Included in this great mountain of remnants are:

- Remnants of dress goods.
